How to Play

To get your game of Christmas charades underway this year, you will want to construct a list of the best charade words. Using individual pieces of paper, take the time to write down each word, placing them all in bowls. Mix up the words inside the bowl and allow the youngest in the family to take the first turn, choosing a word from the bowl. Set a timer, having the player act it out without saying anything. The other players guess what the word is. The first person to guess the word correctly before the timer goes off is the winner. The winner takes the next turn with a different topic. The game can be as long or as short as everyone wishes or can continue until all the charade words have been used.
